

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappears when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has been so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born with kidney trouble. It is well known that with kidney trouble a child is often of the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it will be afflicted with kidney trouble.

In the kidney trouble the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of the human organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to the presence of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit at most people suppose.

An Affray in a Kentucky Hamlet In Which Two Persons Are Fatally Wounded—Passing Away of Colonial Pepper—Other Mentions.

Serpent, Ky., Dec. 28.—One killed and another fatally wounded formed a tragedy on Boone's Fork. Will Ellsworth, 21, and Clark Vanover, 24, were the participants. Ellsworth struck Vanover three times across the forehead with a shotgun, knocking him to the ground.

Regrettably his foolish Vanover, one of whom entered Ellsworth's house, was the victim. Ellsworth's right side, ranging up past the heart, killing him instead. Flourishing his revolver in midair, Vanover walked into the hotel of William Warren, near where the tragedy occurred, and with an oath declared "there is no God." He then attempted to take the life of Warren. Vanover then swooned from loss of blood. He will die. He was known as a desperado.

Footpads Active at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 24.—Citizens demand that Mayor Paul C. Barth for a reward for highwaymen, dead or alive. The species of crime is not mentioned, but the point of view is that men in the habit of asking whomsoever they meet for a match no longer make such requests after nightfall for fear of being taken for thugs. The bold holdup of Miss Sue Walker, when she was first introduced to the public, was the last straw.

After which she was required to remove the latter, thereby enabling the bandit to get $2, was the final straw. The women of Louisville are aroused.

Colonel Pepper Dead.

New York, Dec. 25.—Colonel James E. Pepper, the well known distiller and horseman of Lexington, Ky., who with his wife died the south 10 days ago in the Capital city, New York, died at the Waldorf Astoria. Death was due to heart and lung trouble, which was aggravated by the shock he received last Thursday when the colonel slipped on the street and fractured one of his legs. Mrs. Pepper, who has been ill for several days, was not told of her husband's death. Colonel Pepper was 55 years old.

Honored in Ohio.

Last Friday Rev. S. C. Bates and his estimable wife closed their twentieth year of happy wedded life, and in celebration of this event a large number of their friends responded to verbal invitations and assembled at the Presbyterian church. It was an exceedingly pleasant social function, and a delightful evening was enjoyed. Light refreshments were served and added to the pleasure of the affair. As a token of esteem, the several guests made up a purse of about $25, which was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Bates, who highly appreciated the gift, not only for its intrinsic value, but the mark of friendship which it signified. We voice the sentiment of the community in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Bates and wishing them a lengthy continuance of the pleasant years they have enjoyed together.—Harrison Journal.

THE GAS COMPANY.

The statement concerning the local gas company on our first page, copied from the Louisville Times, and said to have been made by Mr. Edmund Wroe, of this city, was, Mr. Wroe states never made by him. In any event the statement is true and the sudden ceasing of the town's supply of gas is due, not to the natural supply being exhausted, but to the negligence of the parties operating the wells and the pipe lines.

Had the gas wells in Cloverport been properly attended to and cared for during the summer months, the present gas conditions would never have come about.

The parties who have charge of the local gas supply have been negligent in the past and their customers have suffered. But the sins of the past should be buried with the past. Now that the parties operating the wells have brought new rigging to town and are attempting to give their customers good service, let us be silent and allow them an opportunity to redeem the past.

According to men who know, the natural supply of gas in and about Cloverport, has not been exhausted and will not be for many years to come. It stands now for the gas company to give the people of Cloverport good service and respond to the call of public sentiment and get down and out.

grades and alignment, now under way, the result of selling the crowded and condition of the crowded single track, the Southern Railway Company finds it difficult to maintain the schedules of some of its passenger trains as now scheduled, and will, in consequence, revise these schedules, putting them on the basis of slower speed with the expectation of being able to maintain them and believing that under the circumstances this arrangement will be more satisfactory to the public.

The double track work being vigorously pushed and on other parts of the road where double track work is not now under way, but where traffic is heavy, passing tracks are being put in, and those already in, extended, in order to facilitate the movement of trains all such passing track work being done with the ultimate object of utilizing it as double track when double track work may be undertaken in those localities.

The improvement in passenger train movement will naturally improve the movement of freight trains.

The Southern Railway Company has arranged to shorten its operating distances, increasing the number from fourteen to twenty-seven, such one of these divisions to be in charge of a superintendent. Men now in the service will be promoted to the additional positions thus created. This arrangement, it is believed, will result in greater efficiency and will, it is further believed, promote the mutual interests of the public and the company.

The arrangements referred to, the Company is developing and making effective policies initiated by its late president.

Winter watercress are the last novelties offered by the high price fruiters. They come from Colorado and attain their growth so late that they are not in the market. North Carolina Wonder.

Mr. Tom Penne was down in Antioch last week and stayed over night with Mr. Moses Armstrong. That is what Mr. Armstrong has a wonderful pet pig, and he saw it himself with a broom sweeping out the yard. Of course the pig couldn't do as well at sweeping as some of his two legged brethren, but it was wonderful to see how hard the pig worked and what progress he made. Mr. Armstrong says he has a wonderful gender, too. The gender will climb an apple tree, shake it and get the apples. Mr. Penne says he did not see the gender, but after seeing the pig sweep he believed anything. Armstrong told him—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nervine will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, had no appetite, and the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I was told to go to Dr. Miles' Nervine and used altogether six bottles of it. I am now strong and healthy, and now weigh 170 pounds."

GAME BIRDS FOR KANSAS.

Two Carloads of English Pheasants to Be Distributed Throughout The State.

Two express cars carrying about 1,900 English pheasants passed through Kansas City yesterday afternoon on the way to Pratt, Kan. The birds were imported direct from England and consigned to the game warden of Kansas, Dell Travis. They are to be distributed in the various counties with a view of stocking the state with the game.

The game warden made a contract with K. C. Beck of Nickerson, Kan., an importer of birds, for 1,000 pairs of pheasants, but about 100 of them died on the way to this country.

"It required eight express cars of the English style to carry the birds from London to Liverpool," said the man in charge of the pheasants. "You see there is plenty of room in these two American cars."

"A few of the birds died on the train from New York, but most of the 100 died on the boat. They try to fly in the wooden crates, striking their heads against the slats until stunned. Since leaving New York Monday the birds have eaten 400 pounds of cabbage and more than 500 pounds of grain feed."

This is the second shipment of pheasants to Kansas. About nine months ago 750 of the birds were imported from England and turned loose in the state.

The English pheasant is a hybrid between the ring-necked pheasant and the pheasant of southern Europe.

The plumage of these birds is brilliant, that of the male being especially gorgeous. They reproduce rapidly, and in their habits of life are similar to the common barnyard fowl. The history of the pheasant extends back to the days of ancient Rome, and in all times the bird has been popular with sportsmen. There are sixty species of pheasants known, none of which is native to America. The turkey is their closest relative in this country.

Several Men Biting Dust.

On Jan. 26, three men were killed and four probably fatally wounded in a battle between guards employed by the West Kentucky Coal company at Turgie, Union county, and the striking miners at that place. The dead are: C. J. Dougherty, mine guard; Billy Malloy, miner; Wm. Moore, mine guard; and L. L. Moore, mine guard, four wounds, will die; Sam Barney, miner, three wounds, dying; William Goch, miner, shot in the arm; Henry Delaney, miner, shot in the leg. The fight occurred in a downtown room, set about one minute ago. The miners who initiated the fight is not known. It broke out suddenly and continued until about 25 shots were exchanged. The members of the miners' union at about 25 shots were exchanged.

The members of the miners' union had no strike for the past year. The coal company had been in a bind, nonunion men under guards almost constantly, and serious trouble has long been expected. The fight occurred in front of a billiard parlor. A panic ensued and a reign of terror extended for nearly an hour. There is only one officer in the town, but the sheriff of Union county and the deputies have arrived at Sturgis.

The Union county sheriff arrived here with deputies and arrested L. L. Moore, a guard, who was shot in the battle. He was unable to be taken to Morganfield, the county seat, and the sheriff said he could do nothing for him. The sheriff is a member of the coal company. Henry Delaney, a miner, was also placed under arrest.

A man named Strickland was also arrested, and later released on bail. The three men are charged with shooting with intent to kill.

ALONE AND FORSAKEN

And Nearing "The Valley of the Shadow of Death," Aunt Betsy Is Pining For Those Who Apparently Have Forgotten Her.

Stephensport, Ky., Dec. 31.—For a son, lonely and almost lifeless, Aunt Betsy Roff lingers into another New Year with strong hopes that her children, for whom she has been waiting fifteen years, might come to feed her strength.

When Aunt Betsy was at the ripe old age of 73, she was awakened to the fact that her children, in their hunt for fame and riches, had then wandered so far from the old home without the crust of bread. She bore this truth in silence as long as she could, but the time came when she was compelled to reveal her secret and ask the neighbors for help and comfort.

Not long ago Mrs. Roff received the message that she could go to the Masonic home, but she has not yet consented to go from under her own roof and the protection of the good people of Stephensport.

Mr. Roff has children living in Kansas, Louisiana and other places. Why they do not answer their mother's appeal is not known.

Following is the faint cry of Aunt Betsy:

Sitting alone in the old home, Looking out of the widow each day, Waiting and watching for loved ones, Oh, come to your mother I pray.

Children, why have you left me alone? Why will you not come to me? say, Have you forgotten the one who loves you?

Who is now so feeble and old and gray?

Oh, how I have watched o'er you in childhood, and watching for loved ones, Oh, come to your mother I pray.

That the School would guard and guide you in the straight and narrow way.

But oh, how sad and lonely I am, dears, Craving just one glimpse of your face. The Era Master sends his boatman to carry me over to my long-lost resting place.

To be with my Saviour and loved ones, Oh, when will you come to me there? I'll watch at the gate for you all day. In that city of gold, bright and fair.

Recovery of the Educated Flea.

Two weeks or so ago a Baltimore showman lost a flea. The average American citizen undergoes a privation of this kind with admirable fortitude. There are reasons why, under normal conditions, the American citizen will part with even his most personal and immediate flea, and no questions asked.

In this most particular case, however, the conditions are distinctly if not extravagantly abnormal. The flea is in question a valuable one. It was, in fact, the star member of a company of performing fleas, upon the box office results of whose talent the Baltimore showman prospered, took on luxurious tastes and cultivated a brisk of especial magnitude. Naturally the bereaved one advertised his loss and offered opulent rewards for capture and restoration.

The lost flea was appraised of $100 and the full amount promised to the agent of its recovery. It seems a great fuss over an insect of doubtful character and ignoble reputation! But such are the facts of the case; and in our capacity as historians of poignant events we feel obliged to communicate the world.

Within the last week the errant flea has been restored to its heartbroken proprietor. Apparently there are few fleas in Baltimore. Thus the search was free of complication and the identity of the truant easily established. Things are different in Rome and Panama. In Baltimore, evidently, no flea of consequence can possibly escape. It remains to be said, however, that the showman's rapture is not entirely complete. His flea came back, to be sure, and he welcomed it with ill-concealed affection; but it was a battered and disheveled bug. Dissipation had left its angry marks. There were the ragged head and bloodshot eye—inevitable consequences of immoral conduct; and besides the prodigal exhibited a broken leg and a sore foot.

The fracture is now all splints and the patient cared for at a fee of $100. The showman, let us hope, will be the best for the best. With careful nursing and strict scientific supervision the errant flea may be restored to health and usefulness.
